From the Rabbi's Desk

by Rabba Kaya Stern-Kaufman

Dear Friends,

These past weeks we have experienced a shattering of realities- a shattering of the heart and mind, a shattering of any concept of security, a shattering even of vision and of hope. As I sit in this chaos, this place of tohu va-vohu, formlessness and void (Gen. 1:2), a state that precedes the creation of anything new, I am reminded of the Kabbalistic vision of sh'virat hakelim, the shattering of the vessels of Divine light that preceded the creation of a stable and balanced world. The current chaos, pain and trauma of this moment visited upon innocent individuals and families is unbearable. Worlds/lives have been shattered. This continues every day. How do we move forward? Perhaps this kabbalistic teaching offers some spiritual wisdom for our times. These "vessels" or channels for Divine light were meant to nourish the emerging world, but when they shattered, their shards became embedded and hidden in the world as we know it. Our task is to uncover and release these sparks of light through our actions that aspire toward holiness, such as prayer, acts of lovingkindness and the performance of mitzvot. This process is referred to as tikkun, which means restoration or repair. We, human beings, are tasked with the mission to restore holiness in our world.

This spiritual theory emerged in the 16th century, shortly after the trauma of the expulsion of Jewry from Spain. It offered a much broader and deeper context for the spiritual work of rebuilding necessary at that time of soul-shattering collective trauma. I bring this forward as a model of hope and as a prayer, that we may all contribute to lifting up the light of love and peace through our intentions and actions.

In the beginning, when God began to create heaven and the earth, the earth was formless and void, tohu va-vohu, and there was darkness on the face of the deep and a wind from God was sweeping over the waters. God said, "Let there be light" and there was light! (Gen. 1:1-3)

A new world is possible if we create it.

President's Message

Dear TIP Community,

On October 7, we were all devastated by the attack on Israel. I, like many of you, I presume, had trouble internalizing and processing the rapid-fire news and events, and putting into words the thoughts that were bouncing around in my head. Invariably, in the days that followed, when non-Jewish friends, coworkers and acquaintances asked me a simple question: "How are you?" I found myself stumbling on my words. I wanted to convey that Israel was a "Home" to me, but that I'd yet to make it home. I also felt the need to explain the devastating timing and many complexities of this incursion, and to politely correct the oversimplifications of the uninformed. I found myself woefully incapable of coherently doing this in a consistent manner.

After days of consuming endless hours of televised news coverage, I sat down to try and capture these feelings. I share with you now, what I wrote for myself, as an answer to the caring and considerate question that was posed to me countless times, and I am sure to many of you as well.

Tragedy begets togetherness. Our Jewish community has already come together in many ways, as you have read and possibly witnessed firsthand. We will continue to do so. I hope to see you there.

Jared Nabel, President

YOU ASK ME HOW I AM

I've yet to go to Israel I say
But it's not a far off place
Do I have relatives there?
I cannot draw their face

A land I have not trod upon
Though traveled to and fro
My heart resides in Ashkelon
Thoughts will not let go

Songs about a place unseen
Names upon a map
Home we all must call upon
Bridges to be gapped

A concept unexplainable
Yet I appreciate your ear
You ask me how I am,
I am not really here

My blood is Ashkenazi
Europe is my roots
Israel is my people
I am the wandering Jew

Religion is a construct
Of which I must partake
Judaism is my identity
Community unable to forsake

Flag of blue and white
Hexagram adorned
Hatikvah bellows out at night
From a people unduly scorned

History imbues us
This hate we cannot fear
You ask me how I am,
I am not really here

להתראות , L'hitraot, see you soon.

Ritual Committee

by Fran Berman, VP Ritual

Naches and Tsuris

My good friend Brenda always says that life is made up of naches (Yiddish for joy) and tsuris (Yiddish for trouble or pain). The past few weeks have made those words all too real. The terrible events in Israel on October 7 hit us hard as a people, just at the time when our Jewish calendar told us to rejoice, at Simchat Torah. The tsuris burned in our aching hearts, and yet we could not turn our backs on the naches. At services on the following Shabbat, the children from our Hebrew School gladdened our hearts with their voices, and our davening was led by our rabbinic intern, Reb Jacob, who reminded us that all of us are created with a spark of the divine.

Later that month, some of us visited the Temple Israel cemetery with our Hebrew School students to bury sacred texts in a somber graveside ceremony. The children walked through the cemetery, commenting on names on the headstones and learning about some of the congregants who are interred there. The following week we rejoiced as we rededicated our Holocaust Torah scroll, coming together in celebration as the letters were completed and joyously returning this beloved Torah to the aron (ark).

Now, as November begins, we face the anniversary of Kristallnacht, the night of broken glass that was a harbinger of the coming Holocaust, on November 9 - 10. But we will also celebrate Shabbat in song with guest musician and composer Elana Arian on November 10 - 11, including an evening concert on November 11.

How can we jump from such despair and bitterness to such joy? What does it mean? To me, it represents the wisdom of Judaism, which teaches us to find the joy in our lives every day even amid tremendous pain and loss. Both pain and joy are reflected in the prayers we recite week after week in our liturgy. The community joins together to hold us, whether in tears, as at our prayer vigil last month, or in celebration, as we move our bodies to the rhythms and feel the vibrations of the songs we will sing with Elana Arian.

Wishing you a month in which you find some naches amid the tsuris.

ELANA ARIAN WEEKEND

Please join us for a very special musical Shabbat with Artist-in-Residence Elana Arian, an internationally-known performer and composer.

Schedule of Events:

- Friday evening: 6:00 pm musical service and community potluck.
- Saturday morning: 9:00 am student program, 10:00 am Shabbat service, followed by catered kiddush luncheon.
- Saturday evening: 7:00 pm concert and dessert reception. (If you ordered concert tickets last year, they're still good.)

Hebrew School

by Erik Martin, Head of School

October was a roller coaster of a month for all of us in the Jewish community. While we can't help but be anxious about the war in Israel, we should also remember the things that brought us together and put smiles on our faces.

It seems like a lifetime ago at this point but the Pizza in the Hut program was a wonderful evening for all who attended! The weather was perfect, the sukkah was beautiful, and the pizza was delicious! Children made their own dessert sukkahs out of graham crackers, frosting, and candy, families spent time together, and our entire community celebrated a tradition that felt both ancient, and very modern.

Of course this is set against the fear and anguish we all felt as the brutal attacks in Israel affected our community here too. Our students were given time to express their emotions through a painting project. Hopefully coming together in a safe Jewish space was helpful to them.

On October 18, students and teachers met with Rabba Kaya at the temple cemetery on Banfield Road. The children learned about the Jewish practice of storing discarded texts that contain the name of God and damaged prayer books in a genizah prior to burying them. On October 25, Rabbi/Sofer Kevin Hale brought back our Holocaust Torah scroll which he had been repairing over the past two months. Student groups met with him, learning about how Torah scrolls are written using special ink, quill pens, and specialized techniques for forming the letters. It was a rare and fascinating opportunity and the students responded with much enthusiasm and many questions!

Holiday Card Challenge

On Wednesday, November 8th, our students will take part in the "Holiday Card Challenge," making Hanukkah cards and letters that will be sent to both American service men and women, and to IDF soldiers in Israel. As you may know, many of our brave people in uniform aren't able to be home with their loved ones during the holiday season, and something as simple as a handmade card can make their entire day!

Parents are invited to participate as well. Cards can be made on site or taken home and returned. Please join us for this fun and worthy event.

Laura Sher came in and read the book Stone Soup. We cut vegetables, added them to a pot, and made vegetable soup that the children took home to celebrate the fall harvest.

The ELC also received a shipment with composting worms for our classroom. Elian Tackeff explained all about how worms improve the soil, and how we will take care of them indoors during the fall and winter before releasing them outside in the spring.

Autumn delights!

by Tammy Roberge, Preschool Director

The children learned about Sukkot, explored the classroom, and enjoyed the newly relocated playground with its trees and other natural elements, including spiders spinning webs! We met Rabba Kaya in the sukkah to shake the etrog and lulav and dance together.

Israel Affairs Committee

by Emma Rous, IAC Chair

The October 7 massacre in Israel has hit us all hard. Jews throughout the Seacoast and NH have family and friends in Israel, may have traveled there, and certainly identify with Israeli suffering. We are pained by the suffering of all innocent civilians and yearn for the end of conflict. Temple Israel and the larger community have responded with support, prayers for peace, and calls for release of the hostages. Be'ezrat hashem, with the help of God.

"Stories for the Sake of Argument" will proceed as scheduled on November 5 in the Social Hall at TIP. Israeli facilitators, including a director of the program, will join us via Zoom. You can order a copy of the book directly from Amazon and we encourage you to sign up for this important opportunity via the TIP calendar even if you did not register before. Thank you to the TIP Endowment Fund and Rachel Kurshan for supporting this program.

NH Shaliach Guy Ben David joined us for the October 20 Shabbos Tisch and talked about his background and life journey. He will join us again on Saturday evening, January 27, following Havdalah, to share and play Israeli music for us. (Note that the original date for this program, November 17, has changed.)

Thursday, November 16, 6:00 pm, Social Hall

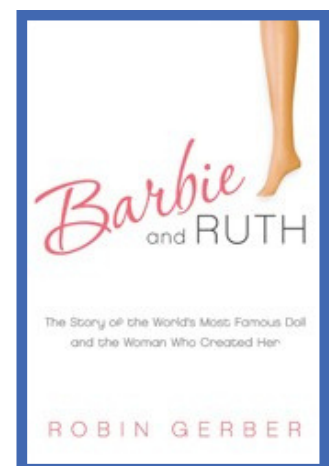

Meet Author H.H. Leonards as she speaks about her book, Rosa Parks: Beyond The Bus. Life, Lessons, and Leadership. Ms. Leonards will sign books at the event. Books are available to purchase at the Black Heritage Trail gift shop or via the registration form. This event is presented in partnership with The Tikkun Olam Committee at Temple Israel in Portsmouth.

Space is limited. Registration is required.

TIP Book Club

The book club will meet at 12:00 pm on Thursday, November 16, to discuss Barbie & Ruth by Robin Gerber. From the publisher:

"The remarkable true story of the world's most famous toy and the woman who created her. It is a fascinating account of how one visionary woman and her product changed an industry."

Brotherhood

by Ryan Kaplan, Brotherhood Chair

Please save the date. On Sunday, December 3rd, the Brotherhood will host a social event from 10:00 am to noon. We will start with a brunch followed by a historical tour of the Temple building led by Robin Albert, TIP member and volunteer with the Portsmouth Historical Society.

Annual Appeal

by Joanne Samuels, Development Chair

Greetings all. The Annual Fund campaign is in full swing. With about $24K raised from thirty families who have already contributed, we are well on our way to our goal.

Through your generous donations, TIP families are able to continue to enjoy all that Temple Israel has to offer. Please consider supporting the future of our synagogue with a generous gift to the 5784 Annual Fund.

Our goal is to raise $100,000 with contributions from each household. Every donation makes a difference. If you are able to make a leadership gift, please join the Rabbi's Circle with a donation of $1,000 or more. Or give $180 to become a Friend. This year perhaps add $57.84 (or, if possible, $5,784) to your current gift. We want everyone to feel a part of our Temple Israel community.

● Students craft sukkahs and Torah scrolls!

Sisterhood

by Rachel Dennis, Sisterhood Chair

I am delighted to welcome many new Sisterhood members. The more, the merrier! I will send a survey about Craft and Kvetch, as it may be scheduled for various days and times, monthly vs. weekly, to suit your schedules.

Our next Sisterhood meeting is on Sunday, November 19. After the business meeting, we will visit the Maine

Jewish Museum in Portland. Carpooling and lunch will be included, details coming soon.

The Sisterhood will be wrapping gifts during Hebrew School on Wednesdays in the weeks before Hanukkah, so parents can purchase gifts and get them wrapped.

A L'dor v'dor (grandmother, mother, granddaughter, older woman, younger woman) generational brunch is being planned for the spring.

We are continuing to revise our mission statement and by-laws. Please contact me at Sisterhood@templeisraelnh.org with any questions or suggestions.

I hope you can join us on Sunday, November 19.

Arts Review Team

by Deborah Levine, Chair

After Hamas's terrorist attack on Israel, we are deeply saddened at the resulting loss of life and injuries in both Israel and Gaza. It is uncertain how long this war will last. Many are left with feelings of anger and powerlessness, not knowing what the future holds for our cherished Jewish homeland.

The Arts Review Team has partnered with a national organization, "Holiday Cards for Our Military Challenge," for a letter-writing campaign to reach both American soldiers and the IDF soldiers who are fighting so bravely for Israel's survival. These letters will be written by congregants of all ages to bring comfort and send our appreciation, both to active-duty soldiers and those who are recovering from injuries. It is a small yet powerful gesture. A special box will be placed in the lobby with sample letters and instructions. Deadline will be Friday, November 10. Letters can be written on site or brought home and returned to the lobby box or temple office.

A glimmer of hope occurred recently when a small group lingered after the Sisterhood meeting on October 15 to attend an online vigil hosted via Zoom by The Parents Circle - Families Forum. Parents who have lost children to war, both Israelis and Palestinians, spoke out.

We were moved by the voice of a young girl singing "Blowin' in the Wind," and her aunt's words, hoping for a peaceful solution to the current conflict. Her friend, a peace activist for 30 years, is one of the hostages taken by Hamas. A Palestinian father was the next presenter. He lost a son to war and was still brave enough to speak about his commitment to peace.

● Community Prayer Vigil for Peace

Another moment of hope was at the Community Vigil for Peace, when congregants and guests of many faith traditions joined voices in prayer and song in our sanctuary. Also, on 10/25, congregants gathered with Sofer Rabbi Kevin Hale for the mitzvah of repairing the Holocaust Torah on loan to Temple Israel. We had a group aliyah, sang together, and ended with the sound of the shofar. Am Yisrael chai! The nation of Israel lives!

One powerful way of connecting with others to create harmony and peace is through Music, which will be our spring theme. Exhibits will include artwork and live performances. Stay tuned for more details. Artwork, writing/poetry, and movement are important tools to cope with difficult times. Please contact the office if you would like to share your creative expression.

We welcome David Hirsch, Joyce Meenes, and Doug Tilton to the Arts Review team as we plan for our December exhibit, with an opening reception 12/15 for artist Tobey Gordon, on the theme of "Between the Real and the Imagined."

Hand drumming continues In November, led by John Felice. Beginners are welcome to participate, Thursdays at 3:30 pm in the chapel.
